LIVING WITH PEOPLE OF OTHER RACES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:9-15, 30-35; Gal. 3:27, 28; Ruth 1:1-18; John 4:5-15; Rev. 7:9.

GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Friends of Many Races.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends of Many Races.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Treating Those of Other Races as We Should Like to Be Treated.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Contribution of Various Racial Groups to a Common National Life.

I. God Is No Respecter of Persons (Acts 10:34).

The approach to the heart of this lesson is through the Golden Text. Paul declared on Mars' hill, "God hath made of one blood all the nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth" (Acts 17:26).

II. Examples of Racial Harmony.

1. Ruth, the Moabitess (Ruth 1:1-18).

In the days of the Judges, because of famine in Judah, Elimelech and his family went to Moab to find subsistence. While there his two sons married Moabitish women. Not long after this, the father and the sons died, leaving three desolate widows. Learning that the famine was over, Naomi decided to return. Ruth insisted upon going with her and her determination was expressed in such wonderful words that they have become classic (Ruth 1:16, 17). She renounced her country and people in order to be identified with the people of the living God. In this we have an example of two very dissimilar people united as one.

2. The woman of Samaria (John 4:5-10).

This woman was not only of a despised people, but of a disreputable character. But when the light of God entered her soul she became a witness to her people of Christ, and the leader of a movement which prepared the way for the revival at the hands of Philip a few years later. That which removed the barrier from between the Jews and Samaritans was the personal knowledge of Jesus Christ.

3. Cornelius, the Roman soldier (Acts 10:9-15, 30-35).

The Jews hated the Romans because they were under bondage to them. Peter, the head of the apostolic group, was a Jew of strong prejudice. The time had now come for the removal of the wall of partition between the Jews and the Gentiles. To do this God chose a high-grade and influential Gentile to make the transition. Cornelius was a devout man, though not saved.

In removing this wall, two visions were given:

(1) To Cornelius (Acts 10:3, 8). While engaged in prayer, an angel from God announced to him that his prayers and alms had come before God as a memorial, and instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do.

(2) To Peter (Acts 10:9-16). In his vision Peter saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals, let down from heaven and heard the command, "Rise, Peter, kill and eat." Against Peter's protest God said, "What God hath cleansed, call thou not common." This vessel let down from heaven and taken back again indicated that both Jews and Gentiles were accepted on high. The spirit of God bade Peter to go with the messengers of Cornelius. Upon arrival, Peter explained to Cornelius how God had removed his Jewish prejudice and then, being assured that they were ready to hear the message from God, he preached Jesus Christ to them. In his sermon to Cornelius, he set forth:

a. The basis of salvation—the death of Christ.

b. The scope of salvation—whosoever believeth on Him.

c. The method of appropriation of this salvation—faith in Christ.

In endorsement of this message by Peter, the Holy Spirit was poured out and as the gospel now was reaching beyond the Jews, there was a new Pentecost.

III. All One in Christ Jesus (Gal. 3:28, 29).

In Christ all class and racial distinctions are lost. Let those who would hasten the period of racial good will bestir themselves to the task of preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ—the only means of uniting the various branches of the race.

Those Who Are Gone

Those who departed loving you, love you still; and you love them always. . . . They are only gone into the next room; and we will presently get up and follow them.—Thackeray.

According as Thy Faith

Art thou a beggar at God's door? Be sure thou gettest a great bowl, for as thy bowl is, so shall be thy mess. According as thy faith, saith He, be it unto you.—John Bunyan.

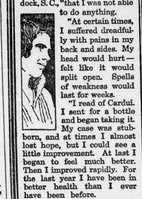
WEAK SPELLS



"I was so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cockcroft, of Baldock, S.C., "that I was not able to do anything.

"At certain times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness would last for weeks.

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before.

"I give the credit to Cardui, for after I had given it a thorough trial, I got well."

AID FOR VETERANS IS RED CROSS PLEDGE

Service and Ex-Service Men Are Helped in All Problems.

Service to World War veterans in hospital, for able-bodied veterans, and for dependent families of both called for expenditures of $735,000 by the American Red Cross during the year just ended. In addition, Red Cross Chapters spent $1,563,000 in veteran relief, and also for men still in service.

Although eleven years have passed since the Armistice, there remain 25,200 disabled and sick veterans of the World War in hospitals, and the peak of the number who will require hospitalization is not expected by Veterans Bureau authorities to be reached until 1947. For these men, the Red Cross must continue its service of providing recreation and comforts, according to James L. Fieser, vice-chairman of the Red Cross.

"Under its Charter from Congress, the Red Cross is required to maintain service for veterans of wars and for the men still in the service," Mr. Fieser said. "The funds for this work come from the annual roll call membership fees. In addition to the sum spent in maintaining contact with the veterans, the Red Cross expended $305,000 in its service to the men still in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The society and a majority of its 2,500 chapters handle claims for these men for insurance, compensation and other benefits they are entitled to under the law, and also where necessary arranges to provide for dependents of the men.

"Red Cross workers are maintained in forty-eight Veterans Bureau Hospitals, as well as in all regular Army and Navy hospitals, whose duty it is to supervise recreational facilities for the patients, and to provide small comforts. In the Army and Navy Hospitals, the workers also do social service for the patients. These tasks also are performed at all Army Posts and Navy Ports by Red Cross workers, and in addition Red Cross representatives handle claims are established at the majority of Veterans Bureau regional offices."

Mr. Fieser urged that all citizens enroll in the Roll Call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 28, in order to aid in supporting this work.

NEW CROPS IN FLOODED STATES BRING PROSPERITY

The introduction of new habits of planting, following the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, has brought added prosperity to farmers in many of the Mississippi Delta counties, according to Red Cross officials.

Almost every cabin has a fine vegetable garden, whereas cotton formerly grew right to the doorstep, the Red Cross states. The home demonstration and agricultural agents have followed up the project inaugurated by the Red Cross, immediately after the flood of 1927, with very gratifying success. There is a large acreage in corn whereas formerly cotton was the one crop. Alfalfa has gained a firm foothold, and the growing of this crop is bringing good financial returns from the three or four cuttings each year. Live stock also is showing improvement due to these new crops.

Everything considered, the Delta sections which escaped a backwater problem in the Spring of 1929 are in a prosperous condition, as a result of the follow-up and rehabilitation by the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS HONOR FLAG GOES TO NEW HAMPSHIRE

The honor flag, given annually to the State which enrolls the greatest percentage of its population as member of the American Red Cross, went this year to New Hampshire. The decision was so close between New Hampshire and Vermont that it hung in the balance for a time. California ranked third in the honor list and Connecticut fourth.

A final tabulation of figures of the 1928 Roll Call showed a nation-wide membership of 4,127,246. The banner went with New Hampshire where it is hung in the State House, until the 1929 Roll Call—held between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day—is completed and new figures available for the 1929 winner.

FIVE RED CROSS CAMPS HOUSE FLOOD REFUGEES

A total of 27,791 persons were maintained by the American Red Cross in camps or in their own homes in the three States of Alabama, Georgia and Florida, following the disastrous floods of early last Spring. Five camps were organized, of which four were in Alabama and one in Florida. Small temporary camps were set up in various places in addition to these, but the persons not sheltered in the five main camps soon were able to return home or to friends and relatives.

Red Cross nurses were at all five camps, assisting the State health authorities in cure of the sick and in inoculating against epidemics.

DOUGHNUTS

Doughnuts can be quickly and easily made at home. So easy is it to make doughnuts today that the doughnut jar should never be empty.

By using self-rising flour for making the doughnuts we can save considerable time in the mixing process and our doughnuts are always the same. The leavening or baking powder, and the seasoning and the salt have been combined in the proper proportions and have been accurately mixed.

A good inexpensive recipe for doughnuts requiring only 1 egg is this:

Doughnuts.

1 egg — ¾ cup sugar
¼ cup milk — 2 cups self-rising flour
¾ tsp. nutmeg — 1 tsp. vanilla

Beat the egg with the sugar; add the milk, flour, nutmeg and vanilla. The dough should be as soft as can be handled. Roll ¼ inch thick; cut with a doughnut cutter, and fry to a delicate brown in deep fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 1 minute. Drain on unglazed paper, and dust with confectioner's sugar.

Witty-Pity

When I sit down to read a tale,
And find it very funny,
I then indulge in laughter hale
And wear a grin that's sunny.
I laugh until I shed a tear,
My eyes with tear-drops glisten.
And then I say to Wife Dear:
"I'm going to read this. Listen!"

And usually SHE has a book
At times like this I mention—
And lifts her eyes and gives a look
That does NOT spell attention.
But still I start to read to her
Steamed up with high elation—
But she sits there without a stir,
And wears a bored expression!

In what I read she finds no fun;
She listens with resentment.
And finally, when I am done,
She sighs in sweet contentment.
A favorite trick is this of mine—
To read her stories witty,
But while I laugh with eyes ashine,
She looks at me with PITY!

Milk like our water supply must be pure.

PAMPLIN

It seems that our Indian summer has passed, leaving behind a vivid memory of beautiful days, when Virginia was dressed in gold, bronze and flaming red, but now the gray and dripping skies and smoke from many home fires remind us that winter is knocking at the door.

Hallowe'en passed quietly. An entertainment was given at the Pamplin High School. An interesting program was rendered by the children of the grades, they were dressed in gay costumes representing witches, goats and hobgoblins, etc. They realized a nice sum of money to be used for the benefit of the school.

Today, November 5th. The shouting will be over, when the last ballot has been counted and the last news boy has carried his unsold papers home. The defeated candidate will scratch his head and the successful one will cover himself with glory and we will all live for the next four years just like we have in the past. The enemies and hard feelings we have caused during the campaign will not affect the successful candidate, for they don't even know we are in existence.

Loyalty Day At Liberty Church

Next Sunday, Nov. 10, will be loyalty day at Liberty Baptist Church. The purpose of this special day is to test the loyalty of the membership by asking every member to attend the morning service and immediately thereafter to give his or her pledge toward the 1930 budget of the church. An organization has been set up and plans made to take care of this matter in a very few minutes following the morning service. Seven booths have been arranged and three workers stationed at each booth with all necessary equipment and it is expected that the budget which was adopted last Sunday will be underwritten in a few minutes and that it will not be necessary to make a house to house canvass this year. For a long time Liberty Church has been the best financed church in the association and one of the best financed organizations in the town and Liberty Church people are urged to keep it so.

C. Jehue Godsey

Jehue Godsey, aged 73 yrs., died at the home of W. T. Nash last Friday a. m. at 1:00 o'clock, after being confined to his room for several months with bronchial trouble.

Mr. Godsey had made his home with Mr. Nash the past eighteen months. He was so agreeable, kind and gentle in his manner and bore his suffering with so much patience. He will be sadly missed in this home. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Blackwell, who is so ill, she has never been informed of his death. Mr. Godsey has lived all his life in this county, and it has been well said, that no person can say aught against his reputation, character, etc. Also said by his neighbors, he was a good honest man, always attending to his own business and never interfered with other people's affairs.

The funeral services were held at the home of W. T. Nash Saturday at 2 p. m., by the pastor, Rev. Goad, where a large concourse of friends and relatives met to pay the last tribute of respect. This was shown by the great number of floral designs which were carried mostly by his nieces.

The pall-bearers were: Everette Ferguson, DeWitt Harvey, Charlie Nash, J. A. Martin, Perlie Jones and Hudson Harvey.

The interment took place at his old home, where he was laid to rest between his two good wives, who had preceded him to the grave. The family has the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Elijah Roberts

This man lived most of his life in this county. He was in the 76th year of his age when he died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Layne at Spout Spring. His remains were interred this morning at Concord Church Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and five children.

Surgeon Gives His Own Blood to Save Friend

St. Paul.—The story of how a surgeon performed an emergency operation on an old friend, gave the patient a transfusion of his own blood and then hurried away to perform another operation was revealed here by attendants of a St. Paul hospital.

The patient, J. M. Riegel, widely-known northwest newspaper man, "underwent an operation for the removal of a kidney. As he lay on the operating table it was seen that he needed a transfusion; both a nurse and an anesthetist, promptly gave some of their blood.

Relief was taken to his room where his condition was found to be growing steadily weaker. Close friends and relatives of the patient gathered at the door, eager to give him some of their blood.

But with only moments to spare the physician, whose name was not revealed, refused to take the time necessary for tests, but bared his own arm and gave the patient some of his own blood.

The surgeon then hurried back to the operating room to complete the day's work, which included another major operation. Shortly after the transfusion Reigel began a steady improvement.

AGED PRISONER ASKS NO FAVORS

Nearly Eighty, Man Says He's "Not Done Yet."

San Francisco.—While most of the elderly prisoners at San Quentin prison avail themselves of the privilege of taking life easy in the "old man's ward," the oldest inmate of them all, nearly eighty, works eight hours a day and sleeps like the majority of the convicts in the large cell blocks.

Received at the prison in April on a charge of passing fictitious checks in Yolo county, P. R. Graham was offered a bed with the other convicts in the quarters which used to house the women prisoners. Here 85 weary oldtimers are allowed to spend their remaining days in peace and quiet, listening to the radio, smoking and playing dominoes.

"Not for me. I'm not done by a long shot yet," the gray-haired arrival announced and requested of John H. Carpenter, captain of the yard, that he be allowed to go to work "same as anyone else."

He was permitted to choose which of the prison industries he would engage in and selected the furniture factory. For months he has labored industriously learning the rudiments of the trade, and he is to be allowed to design and make his own pieces.

The seventy-nine-year-old clerk has no previous prison record known to San Quentin authorities.

Return of Arctic Forest Predicted After Survey

Tacoma, Wash.—Logging in the shadow of the North pole is only a matter of time. Tree growth toward the north is not limited by climatic conditions, declares Robert Marshall of the United States forestry service, but by the fact that the ground has not recovered the ground lost when it was swept away during the Arctic ice ages.

It will be a slow process, but tree growth is being established again on the Arctic shores, inflict dwellers now, whereas they would have passed unnoticed not so many years ago."

Hence the need for skilled observers to keep tab on dangerous volcanoes.

How one eruption prediction saved thousands of lives and much property, was reported by Doctor Jaggar, in a communication to the National Geographic society, on the eruption of Sakurajima, Japan's greatest volcanic convulsion within historic times. The Hawaiian specialist was an eye-witness of the last phases of this eruption.

Although 20,000 people were living on the tiny island center of destruction a few days before the disaster, the volcano killed no one.

"The remarkable record of life-saving in the Sakurajima eruption," wrote Doctor Jaggar, "was partly due to good luck, but also to the instinct of the people, to the wisdom of the government, and to scientific societies."

Hopes to Learn More.

To determine whether earthquakes, more common in the United States than volcanoes (Lassen, in California, is only eruptive one), have a close relation to volcanoes, has been one object of Doctor Jaggar's study.

"It is only a question of time," Doctor Jaggar continued, "and of additional observations at several volcanoes, for science to learn more about earthquake portents than anyone dreamed of 50 years ago.

"The late honored Professor Omori was a martyr to science in the Tokyo earthquake. He devoted all the later years of his life to studying the relation of earthquakes to active volcanoes in Japan. He found that volcanoes were keys to the earthquake problem. He had almost reached the point of unlocking the mystery. All honor to his memory, and may science take up the key where he laid it down."

Detroit to Use Planes to Check Up on Taxes

Detroit, Mich.—In an effort to discover thousands of dollars' worth of taxable property which has escaped assessment in the past, a contract for an aerial photograph of the entire city of Boston was recently awarded to a flying service.

It was believed that the aerial photographs when pieced together will show up houses, garages and other real estate which has never been surveyed by the assessors.

Several weeks will be required for the work, and the air snapshots will be used in conjunction with news maps being completed by the assessing department.

Keen-Eyed Indian Caddies Are Popular

Banff, Alberta.—The keen eyes and passiveness of the Indian braves are proving the ideal combination for caddies at this Canadian resort. Members of the tribe of Stoney Indians, many of them old braves, are employed as caddies. Their ability to see balls driven for great distances has won them a popularity among golfers. Caddy masters say they have not yet lost a ball. A topped shot never brings a snicker, nor do they ever speak unless spoken to. Chief Sitting Eagle, descendant of famous warriors, is one of the best liked of the Stoney Indian caddies.

Cat Burials Oppress Him; Asks $10,000

Los Angeles.—Cat and dog funerals in plain view of his home have so depressed Nicola de Pento that he wants $10,000 damages from the Los Angeles Pet Memorial Park, Inc., it was revealed by his suit filed in the Superior court. He said the proximity of the burial ground for pets has damaged his property.

STUDIES VOLCANOES' THROATS FROM AIR

Scientist Uses Planes to Make Observations.

Washington.—The use of an airplane to permit a scientific observer to look down the "sore throats" of active volcanoes, is one of the latest developments of aviation.

On the island of Hawaii, where the eruptions are feared, three navy seaplanes have been used for volcano inspection trips. Aboard one plane was the veteran volcano observer, Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar.

No monarch or President receives more careful attention than that given by Doctor Jaggar to the volcanoes of the Hawaiian Islands. While his fame rests largely on his practice in these American possessions, Doctor Jaggar is subject to call as consultant in the Aleutian Islands, Japan and other volcano centers.

His house on the lip of Kilauea gives the scientist the right to be considered a "bedside volcano observer" in practically constant attendance on his most chronic case. His instruments, especially his seismographs, have their fingers on the pulse of the volcanoes at all times.

As some eruptions have arisen to fever heat earthquakes became stronger and more frequent. The numerous earthquakes that have shaken Hawaii recently aroused fears of impending eruption.

Studied Mount Pavlof Area.

During the summer of 1926 Doctor Jaggar led a National Geographic society expedition to the little-known Mount Pavlof volcano area in the Aleutian Islands, one of the most active volcanic regions in the world today.

On the expedition to the Pavlof area Doctor Jaggar found evidence of a four-and-a-half-year cycle of activity among the Aleutian cones.

"There are no more earthquakes or eruptions than there have been in the past," declared Doctor Jaggar, in a report to the National Geographic society. "But more and more people are living in congested areas where earthquakes inflict disasters now, whereas they would have passed unnoticed not so many years ago."

Hence the need for skilled observers to keep tab on dangerous volcanoes.
